STATE HOSPITAL EMPLOYEE CONVICTED

EDWARD YOUNG FOUND GUILTY GETS 6 MONTHS AND $200 FINE

Jury Rendered Verdict in Ten Minutes—George Burchfield, Another Attendant, Plead Guilty to a Similar Charge is Given Suspended Sentence.

Edward Young, of Marietta, former attendant at the Columbus State Hospital for the Insane, was found guilty Friday afternoon of assault and battery on George Thomas, 55, a patient.

The jury in the Columbus municipal court deliberated ten minutes.

After the jury reported, George Burchfield, of Briggsdale, another attendant, also implicated in the affair, plead guilty to a similar charge.

Judge Mahaffey sentenced Young to six months in the workhouse and imposed a fine of $200 and costs, and Burchfield, who testified against Young, was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in the workhouse.

Thomas testified that Young had beat him on March 19 and 20. He said that he was weak and could not work and that Young had beat him with a man's sock in which a cake of soap had been tied. "I'll kill you if you don't do what I say," he said Young told him.

He testified that he had been knocked down many times before and that another attendant in Ward L, known as the "violent ward" "took a punch" at him several days before he was beaten by Young.

Dr. W. H. Pritchard, superintendent of the hospital testified that regulations of the State Welfare department require that all patients be treated with kindness. He said he dismissed Young Friday, March 20, and did not learn of the beating of Thomas until that evening.

Young testified in his own defense and denied that he had beaten Thomas. "I took Thomas in at 10 o'clock on Thursday, March 20, and turned him over to Burchfield in the ward," he said. "I took Thomas out again at noon. At 11 o'clock the next day I got notice of discharge from Dr. Pritchard. "Dr. Pritchard gave no reason for discharging me, but I knew it was because I protested against brutality about the place," he testified.

Young said he didn't know anything about the soap-filled socks exhibited in court, but said that socks were used by attendants in other wards.

Burchfield, testifying against Young admitted he had struck Thomas himself half a dozen times.

"Thomas had been working with other patients under Young," he said. "Young said Thomas wouldn't work and that he intended to whip him."

"I put two bars of soap in a sock. Young beat Thomas that day. The next day I heard Thomas yell while he was being beaten again." Carl Denbow, night attendant, testified he noticed Thomas limping and asked him what was the matter. "When he said he was stiff from shoveling coal, Young said: 'Tell him I gave you a good licking.'" H. B. Decker, chief engineer, also testified Young had told him "I gave Thomas a good trimming."

AUTOMOBILE SKIDDED ON THIRD RAIL

Unable to see the danger signal in the heavy fog Friday evening, K. E. Sweeger accompanied by Misses Goldie and Lorraine Porter, of Columbus, riding in a closed Buick auto skidded and ran onto the third rail of the Traction company's line at Ritt's Crossing. The rubber tire was the only thing that saved the occupants of the car from instant death. The electric current had to be shut off before the car could be pulled off the rail.

The occupants came to this city and were forced to remain here over night.

Strauss Writes Concerto for One-Armed Pianist

Vienna.—Richard Strauss has composed a concerto for piano and orchestra especially for a one-armed Viennese pianist, Paul Wittgenstein. It is entitled "Parergon to the Symphonica Domestica," the latter symphony being one of Strauss' best received musical offerings.

Wittgenstein will give the concerto its premiere next winter at Dresden with Fritz Busch, general musical director of the Dresden opera conducting.

JOHN H. GILL IS SELECTED DIRECTOR

Of Dokkie Band Concert, He is Also Leader of the Grotto Musicians.

When the band of the Dramatic Order, Knights of Khorassan, of Bakoo Temple gives its concert at Memorial hall, Columbus, Saturday will present John H. Gill, its director whom the band believes is the best bandmaster not only in Columbus but in this section of the state.

Band music is Mr. Gill's hobby his life and his breadwinner. He teaches band music he teaches would-be-musicians how to play band instruments, any number of them and then puts his teaching into effect by directing not only the Dokkie band but also the Grotto and Knights Templar organizations.

Under the hand of Mr. Gill the Dokkie organization in the space of five short years has been whipped into an outfit efficient enough to bring to Columbus honors from Chattanooga and Dayton in the past few years during Pythian meetings. Not only that but he has brought the band personnel up to 70.

SHOPLIFTING

Why women steal is one of the most perplexing problems confronting modern society. Take for instance the case of the woman of culture and breeding. She has health, youth, intelligence and good looks. On the wall of her bed-room back in the middle-western town where she was born hangs a bachelor of arts degree from a well-known university where she is now doing post-graduate work.

She has just pleaded guilty to the charge of shoplifting. She is not a professional thief. She's just one of the alarmingly large army of women who steal; a victim of the three hand-maidens of shoplifting—Desire, Opportunity and Impulse.—Judge J. J. Freschi, in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

Cat Superstition

A black cat running across the path in some countries is considered a bad omen and in others a good omen. This superstition probably had its origin in the fact that black cats are in mythology inseparably associated with witches, who had the power to bring either good luck or misfortune.

LEGION PUTS ON CAMPAIGN FOR DISABLED

Debt to Veterans Can Never Be Fully Paid—Hearty Response Expected.

"Ohio is ready to hear the appeal of The American Legion for two classes of sufferers of the World war—the disabled men and the orphans of fallen veterans," declared Milo J. Warner, commander of the Ohio department of the Legion.

The American Legion campaign for a $5,000,000 Endowment fund for rehabilitation and child welfare, which has been going on in several states, is now under way in Ohio. It will culminate in an intensive drive probably about the last of May.

"The American Legion wants the American public to have the opportunity of helping the Legion help the disabled veterans and the children of men who gave up their lives as a result of their service to the country," Commander Warner said. "Rehabilitation and child welfare are the two greatest post war problems. They are so closely related that they are almost one. What disabled father has not looked down upon the faces of dependent children with terror lest they suffer the pangs of privation which his restoration to health alone can prevent? Does not his mental anguish over the fate of little children erect a material bar to his own reconstruction?"

"There are 35,000 war orphans and many times more sick, ailing and disabled ex-service men whose lives the war blighted. We can not do too much for them—our debt can never be fully repaid. The American Legion has assumed the obligation of seeing that these two consequences of the war receive a full measure of justice but we need the public's assistance to the limit."

"Everywhere the endowment movement has spread it has met with a hearty reception. I know it will meet with that same response in Ohio."

President Coolidge is chairman of the national honorary committee for the Endowment fund and all members of his cabinet have endorsed it. Leading men and women of the country in all lines of endeavor are members of the national endowment fund committee.

Already the work of organizing state and local endowment fund committees has been begun. These committees will contain the names of prominent citizens and member of the Legion and Legion Auxiliary, Commander Warner said.

Mrs. Thomas Wardell and Mrs. Jack Wardell spent the day in Columbus.

THE ATLANTA TEMPERANCE WOMEN MEET

Very Interesting Program at Home of Mrs. Herbert Gray, Wayne Township.

The Atlanta Woman's Christian Temperance Union held a very interesting and successful institute at the pretty country home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gray in Wayne township, Wednesday, April 8.

The morning session opened at 10:30 o'clock by singing "All Around the World White Ribbon We'll Twine." The president, Mrs. Blanche Hoskins, presided. A number of local directors of departments gave reports of work done. The noontide prayer was voiced by Mrs. Mary E. Gray. A delightful social period was enjoyed during the box luncheon at the noon hour and until the afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock by singing "Work for Law Enforcement." Mrs. Rife read the scripture lesson and led the devotions. Mrs. Mary Gray had charge of the program which was entitled "Anti Narcotics." Mrs. Edith Cleary the secretary called the roll of members which was responded to by each one reading a few sentences pertaining to the topic of the afternoon. Mrs. Minnie Henry read a copy of Cigaret Law of the State of Ohio, section 12965; Whoever sells, gives or furnishes to a person under eighteen years of age a cigaret cigaret wrapper, or substitutes for either, or a cigar, or tobacco shall be fined not less than $25 or imprisoned not less than two days, nor more than thirty days, or both, and for each subsequent offense shall be fined not less than $50 dollars nor more than $300 and imprisoned not less than five days nor more than sixty days.

Miss Anna Harriman read a very interesting paper entitled "Let's Build, not Destroy." A very forcible article was read by Mrs. Emma Jennings which quoted from the manager of a noted baseball team known as the Detroit Tigers, who says he has found in the baseball possession that the men who have made the greatest success are those who are abstainers from alcoholic drinks and the cigaret, he says the cigaret habit is the bane of the young American boys life and is responsible for as many ruined constitutions as can be laid at the door of alcohol. Mrs. Pearl Adkins read a very highly interesting story explaining how the quarterly temperance Sunday school lesson came to be adopted by the International Sunday School association. Mrs. Adkins also read a short article quoting from reliable authority as follows: we as a nation paid out last year half a billion

of Interest to Women

Those who embroider with a number of different colors on one piece frequently are annoyed by the way the silk skeins become tangled with each other, even when the utmost care is taken. An easy way to avoid this is to take a piece of cardboard about four inches wide and eight inches long if you are using seven different colors, nine inches long for eight colors, and so on. If you are using fewer colors, shorten accordingly. Cut notches on both sides of the cardboard an inch apart for the silks to fit into. As you wind on the different colors, mark on the cardboard beneath the silk the number that was on the label. When the skein is used, you easily can re-order by number to get the exact shade.

When using several different colors in embroidering, a saving in time is effected by having as many needles as colors are required. No unthreading and rethreading need add moments of time to the finished piece. Also when hoops are used with only one needle the delicate material is frequently badly strained by stretching the same area over the hoops several times as is necessary when only one color is worked up at a time.

Organdie is hard to cut straight, but tears easily either way. The home dressmaker who has been distressed by the puckering of organdie when sewed on the machine will find that by using mercerized thread her troubles with this fabric will be over. When stitched with mercerized thread, the organdie is as fresh as when in the piece. And a better match can be secured than with the silk or cotton threads.

The perfect buttonholes of the tailor are accomplished by marking the length of the buttonhole with beeswax, which holds the cut threads together. Ordinary soap does the same work where no beeswax is in the work basket. The same principle is an aid in making uniform eyelets.

How One Gown Can Be Made Do Much Service

With little trouble and extra expense one gown can be made into many. An unusual tunic arrangement is made of black or of dark silk. This is worn over an underslip of a light and contrasting color. Make a long narrow beaded band of the same color as the slip. Bead it with bright-colored beads. Line the band with the dark silk. Sew the lower parts of two snap fasteners to the under side of the band. Sew the other parts to the top of the tab of the tunic. Wear a string of beads to match the slip. Pass the beaded band up and over the beads. Finish the end of the band with a long silk tassel. You may have several slips with bands and beads to match. The same tunic with different slips will give the effect of many frocks. You might also have more than one tunic.

Embroidered Shawl and Hat of Same Material

New fashions offer much that is of interest to those who desire to keep a bit ahead of the prevailing mode. One of the novelties whose vogue will be repeated later on at the summer resorts of the North is an ensemble consisting of a shawl of light-weight wool gayly embroidered with flower motifs in the most vivid colors, and a hat of the same materials similarly decorated. A feature of the shawl is the deep knotted fringe of wool.

Patch Pockets

Very large pockets, sometimes bound with narrow silk braid, are very attractive on street frocks of twill or kasha.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Control of Animal Parasites Studied

Coal Tar Creosote Solutions Found to Be Best.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Various methods of treating horses for infestations with biting and sucking lice were tested by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, during the last fiscal year, in the course of studies in the treatment and control of external parasites of live stock. The best results were obtained by dipping or spraying with coal-tar-creosote solutions or arsenical dip.

Coal-tar-creosote solutions are found on the market as stock dips under various trade names with instructions on the labels for dilution. The arsenical dip is the same as that used for destroying cattle ticks, and is used in the same dilution.

Tests with sulphur-dioxide gas to cure sarcoptic mange proved to be unsuccessful. Treatments with gas concentrations as high as 10 per cent and consisting of two hours' exposure on four different days at five-day intervals failed to cure advanced cases. Other degrees of concentration and with treatment at different intervals likewise gave negative results.

The Department of Agriculture is making exhaustive investigations of the numerous kinds of parasites—both external and internal—that affect domestic animals, and also maintains an "index-catalogue" of the published literature on parasites, which is believed to be the most complete of its kind in existence. It includes data on animal parasites found in all parts of the world.

Eliminating Horse From Metropolitan Centers

"City use of horses is on the decline," says Dr. Carl W. Gay of the University of the State of Ohio, in a recent lecture at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca. He says, on the other hand, that the reverse is true on farms.

Doctor Gay said that the horse breeders of the country have been following a policy of blind optimism by making themselves believe a horse boom lies around the corner. The traffic problem in the large cities is so acute that the horse-drawn vehicles are becoming fewer and fewer, so that the breeders must look to the farmer as a purchaser.

In order to fulfill the farmers' demands the small mares should be bred as well as the larger ones to obtain the desirable wagon-type of horse. The wagon type is becoming more and more recognized as the most desirable farm horse, as it is a horse which combines draft ability with speed on the road. For the farmer with no pride of ancestry or hope for posterity, the mule is even more efficient than the horse, Doctor Gay says.

While Doctor Gay is pessimistic about the future use of the city horse, he is just as optimistic when looking at the farm-horse proposition. A sane, safe policy for farmers of the East is to breed their own replacements. "Deal in the present needs, not in uncertain features" is the speaker's advice.

Brome Grass a Valuable Crop for Pasture Land

Brome grass is more valuable for pasture than for hay. It will do fairly well on very light soil, as it stands drought well. It starts slowly. For this reason sow with clover and timothy. Sow with nurse crop.

The clover and timothy make most of the crop the second year; after that the bromus makes most of the crop. If sown without other grass, sow 10 to 15 pounds of seed per acre. In a mixture as suggested above, sow five or six pounds per acre.

Sweet clover and bromus make a very good mixture for pasture. Sow from six to eight pounds sweet clover, four to five pounds timothy and five pounds bromus per acre. It is not hard to get rid of.

FARM FACTS

If a first you don't succeed, buy better seed.

A man is as old as he feels but a gardener is always young.

It's time to begin thinking about feeding next winter's dairy cows.

Before planning to increase production, make sure that the product can be sold.

Using poor seed, or untested seed, may be cheap in first cost, but it's expensive in the long run.

While New York is not a beef-cattle state, the latest census shows 63,170 beef cattle in the state.

An important form of co-operation on the farm is co-operation with the weather to get things done under right weather conditions.

To get early muskmelons—the kind that bring the best prices—start the seed under glass in vernal pans, and transplant to the field.

The farmer who merely guesses that his seed corn will grow, may have another guess coming. The germination test is a "sure thing."

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. EASTER

It is in the spring time when life seems most worth living. All nature is reviving, is being born again.

The singing of the birds, the blooming of the flowers, the awakening of the trees—on every hand there are signs of life that delight and inspire.

It is at this joyous time that the Easter season comes. Easter day is in perfect harmony with this period.

It represents the spirit of hope, the promise of life. Without this promise of a greater, broader life, the joy of living would be destroyed.

Everywhere the significance of the anniversary of the assurance of a life to come is understood, there is rejoicing.

In gratitude for the promise, we express our praise in inspired song, in pageantry, and in offerings of Nature's choicest gifts, the flowers which in themselves typify a new birth—a resurrection.

Nature proclaims the reasonableness of the Christian's belief in the flowering of new life. But, fortunately, the Christian does not depend upon Nature to assure him. When Jesus of Nazareth, crucified to appease an angry mob, broke the bonds of death and became "the first fruits of them that slept." He flooded the gates of eternity with a light that forever dissolved the mystery of death.

Easter, the anniversary of the supreme victory of Time, with its message of hope for every soul, illumines the pathway into the future, enabling men to look across the grave, and know that they are going on. Today, we know that this is only the beginning. Without the hope and the courage this day inspires, life would not be worth the living.

NEW ENROLLMENT
RECORD AT CARNEGIE

Pittsburgh, April 9.—The present total enrollment of 5,089 students in both day and night courses at Carnegie Institute of Technology is the largest in the history of the institution according to a report issued today from the office of Registrar Alan Bright. The net gain in enrollment over that of a year ago, the report points out, is 436, and over 1922-1923, the gain is nearly 1,000.

Counting the registration in the part-time and Saturday morning classes conducted this year at Carnegie, the total registration, according to Mr. Bright's report, is 5,651, also recorded as the highest total enrollment for all courses in one year since the Institute was established. A high water mark of considerably more than 6,000 students is expected to be reached for this year when the summer school enrollment of at least 600 is added to the present total registration.

Easter-Day in Easter-Land

By DR. S. R. VINTON

Easter comes at a different date in the Near East than in America, owing to the fact that the Greek church still clings to the antiquated Byzantine calendar. Easter is pre-eminently the most important holiday of the year in Greece, and its observance is more universal and more elaborate than anywhere in Western countries. In this article Dr. Vinton, famous world-traveler and lecturer, tells of his experiences in Athens, where he spent Easter last year among the refugees and orphans who are being cared for by America through the Near East Relief.

I AM writing in Athens, at two o'clock in the morning of Easter Sunday, according to the Greek calendar. I have just come from a two hour service that started shortly before midnight. Although I could not understand the Greek words of the service, I could enjoy and appreciate it, and as a result of three days of church-going there runs through my mind very persistently the words so long ago uttered by St. Paul in this very place: "Ye men of Athens—very religious."

Tonight was the climax of a series of observances that started on Good Friday. All that day the bells were tolling and flags were at half-mast everywhere. Business stopped. Throughout the day steady streams of people poured into the churches, not simply the great Cathedral, but into scores of little chapels I had never noticed before. I went into many of them. There was no general or congregational service; it was all individual worship. People came alone or in family groups. Every class of society was represented. In most of the churches there were representations of the sepulchre and people knelt for back into the church; the crowd began to move, but nobody was in a hurry. They were greeting friends with the glad tidings, "Christos Anesti." Mothers whispered it to their children and the children lisped back reply. Refugees in old ragged clothes, with the memory of massacre, deportation and suffering, said softly, thankfully, "Christos Anesti."

A two-hour service of more formal character followed, in the Cathedral, marked by antiphonal chanting of very impressive character. Perhaps five thousand people crowded into the building, all standing. An impressive thing was their obvious familiarity with all the intricate requirements of the service: at certain points five thousand hands moved as one when they made the sign of the cross at some point in the chant or reading. No one had a prayer-book; everyone seemed to know the service perfectly.

At one point in the service, a Bishop advanced toward the open door and called out a question in a loud voice. There came back from five thousand throats the answer, in Greek, but unmistakable: "He is not here; He is risen."

The climax came when two Bishops advanced to the altar, carrying bea moment as they kissed reverently the sacred pictures in front of the "tomb." I watched long and, I am frank to say, critically, for evidences of mere formality, mere routine. But I saw earnest, reverent, prayerful worship. Late into the evening the bells still tolled and the people were still going to the churches. That night thousands and thousands marched in procession through the streets and up the long winding road to the Chapel of St. George at the top of Mount Lycabettus.

Saturday night the city took on a more festive turn. By ten o'clock the streets were full of people. Every person carried a candle, most of them unlit, but enough lit to make the scene one long to be remembered. Soon after ten, a movement started toward the great square in front of the Cathedral, and I pushed along with the crowd. After a few blocks the crowds became thicker and progress difficult. But it was a good-natured crowd. There was talking and laughing, but there was nothing boisterous. It was a reverent, homey crowd, grouped in families, with thousands of children.

Reaching a cross street, I found the main approach to the Cathedral Square. I could scarcely believe my eyes: the square was as light as at noonday from a thousand flaring gas lamps and at least ten thousand candles. The center of the square was a great stand which had been erected for the church dignitaries and their midnight Easter service. In front of the stand were a thousand orphans from the American orphanages, drawn up in close formation, hats off, reverent and worshipful.

At 11:45 the bells of the Cathedral burst into music. The crowd surged forward. Those who had not yet lit their candles borrowed lights from their neighbors. Then came the processions from the church, first the sacred ikons, then the parish priests, then the bishops and finally the Metropolitan, head of the church. A band began to play a stately Gregorian chant; the soldiers came rigidly to salute and held it for the full five minutes of the chant. Everybody joined in the singing. Ten thousand voices came to me, a deep vibrant sound like the combined music of wind through the pines and the distant breaking of heavy surf. I could distinguish no single voices, so heavy and overpowering was the swelling chorus. Everybody knew the chant and joined reverently. It was as if they were singing to themselves and not alone, with no consciousness of anyone around them.

The chant was finished just before midnight, and the Metropolitan's voice rose clear and strong, reaching a climax on the stroke of twelve with the familiar words "Christos Anesti"—Christ is Risen! As the bells broke forth in joyful whole-throated pealing, every person in the crowd repeated again and again these words, "Christ is Risen." Each man greeted each of his neighbors with the joyous phrase, a people in an American crowd will say "Happy New Year" to each other at New Year's. The procession filed tween them a very old book. Then the Metropolitan, in full ecclesiastical robes, came forward and read a chapter in a clear, strong voice that filled the great church, closing with the words, "Christos Anesti." Every candle swept upward as the crowd, in hushed tones vibrant with deep emotion, echoed his phrase. Three times this was done, and then followed a chant in which the same words rang out again and again.

In the American orphanages and in the refugee camps, it has often seemed to me that the secret of these remarkable people of the Near East is to be found in Paul's phrase "very religious." An amazing thing is the faith and spirit of these people. In every corner of the Near East I have been impressed with their deep religious character and their devotion to their church.

In the American orphanages there is, of course, daily Bible study. That is generally taken for granted; I didn't take for granted, however; I inquired everywhere and never failed to find a regular program, in which the children displayed great interest. But there is also spontaneous religious life among these children. At Sidon, I found the orphans holding a prayer service of their own, not daily, but thrice daily. At Nazareth the boy carpenters used a part of their lunch hour for a devotional service. On the door of the Boys' Club in another orphanage center I saw a sign, written by one of the boys, "Come here to study the Bible."

The deeply religious nature of the people of the Near East and their intense faith in God are a chief explanation of the spirit in which they have endured so much without losing heart and hope. Recognition and development of this spiritual factor are of great importance in the contribution that America is making toward a permanent and just solution of the many problems of the Near East.

The East has been awakened. It is stirring with new life, new vitality, new aspirations. The Nile Valley, Palestine, Syria, Turkey and the Balkans, are electric with potentialities. Perhaps the future of every child on earth today is taking form in this cauldron of old races and old hatreds, of new hopes and new power. Ten years ago a bomb exploded at Sarajevo in the Balkans, and destroyed the old life of every man and woman and child in the United States. Let us not doubt that the fate of our children is being affected by the momentous events of today in the Near East.

We do not doubt it. Nor are we helpless and blind in imagined security, as we were ten years ago. The American people are acting now, in the turmoil of the Levant. They are speaking clearly and strongly the one word that means friendship, understanding, peace. Through our humanitarian and relief activities we are expressing in action, not in lip-service, the ideal of the Golden Rule. Sixty thousand orphaned children, of all the Levantine races, are learning it from the Americans who have rescued them from death.

Stronger Men.

"Do not pray for easy lives. Pray to be stronger men. Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers. Pray for powers equal to your tasks. Then the doing of your work shall be no miracle. But you shall be a miracle. Every day you shall wonder at yourself at the richness of life which has come to you by the grace of God."—Phillips Brooks dollars more for tobacco than for motor cars. The tobacco bill is far in excess of the total cost and valuation of the entire public school system of America.

Mrs. Everett Hoskins read a very instructive paper entitled "Habit Forming Drugs" from which she quoted from Dr. Charles B. Towns, of New York, who deals with thousands of addicts yearly. Dr. Towns says that no one who has not had the opportunity to study it first hand can realize the enormity of the drug habit or form any clear idea of the havoc it causes or the pitiable state to which it reduces its victims.

Mrs. Price, county president read a paper entitled "Astounding Facts" which brought out many surprising facts. Mrs. Price also gave a very interesting talk on various phases of the work. "The World is Going Dry" was sung. Mrs. Herbert Gray presided at the piano.

The program closed with the benediction. This institute will leave many pleasant memories in the minds of all who were in attendance.

Among the goodly number of visiting members in attendance were Mrs. Jennie Leist, Miss Lydia Leist, Mrs. Emma Miller, Mrs. E. L. Price, Mrs. E. M. Rife and Mrs. S. W. Duplap, of Circleville.

Mohair of Commerce

The mohair upholstery of the best enclosed cars is woven from the soft, silky fleece of the Angora goat. The word "mohair" is derived from the Arabic "muhayyar," which means choice or select, and which even in Biblical times was applied to fine goat's hair fabrics.

AMUSEMENTS

There is hardly a man, woman or child in the land who doesn't know and love "Peter Pan," the boy who wouldn't grow up.

For the past twenty years this J. M. Barrie play has been nothing short of a sensation on the legitimate stage. It has become an institution, in fact—an institution that shows no sign of decay.

Barrie, the man with the most colorful imagination of all England's writers, has put into this classic scenes which could only be hinted at in the stage production of the piece.

But on the screen, it is an entirely different matter. In the Herbert Brenon production for Paramount of the Barrie master piece, with Betty Bronson, Ernest Torrence Cyril Chadwick, Virginia Brown Faire, Anna May Wong and others in the all star cast, the underground home of the Little Lost Boys, Never, Never Land itself, the Indians, fairies and pirates, the Darling home, dog-nurse and all have been reproduced with amazing fidelity on the screen.

"Peter Pan" which opens next Monday at the Met theater is a scene picturization of a story as the author wrote it.

Herbert Brenon was selected to direct the picture because he was the producer of the first two fantasies the screen ever knew. Roy Pomeroy who handled the technical end of the Cecil B. DeMille super-production, "The Ten Commandments," which stood the entire industry on end is responsible for the many weird effects in "Peter Pan."

Ether, Ralston, George All, Mary Brian, Philippe de Lacey, and Jack Murphy complete the cast of players. "Peter Pan" was adapted for the screen by Willis Goldbeck.

Nation's Hall of Fame

The Hall of Fame, in New York, belongs to New York university. The money to build it, amounting to $250,000, was given anonymously for this particular purpose. It is known officially as "The Hall of Fame for Great Americans." Fifty names were to be inscribed on the tablets as the beginning, and five additional names every fifth year thereafter until the year 2000. Only persons who have been dead twenty-five or more years are eligible to be chosen.

Aimed at Great Britain

The Suffolk resolves were the league and covenant made by many Massachusetts towns in 1774 to abstain from all commercial intercourse with Great Britain. They were executed after the closing of the port of Boston by British authorities as a reprisal for the destruction of the tea in Boston harbor by patriots in defiance of the tax on tea.

"What is her home like?"

It's a question women ask of each other at the club, at the theater, at the luncheon.

"Oh, so---so," with the faintest shrug of the shoulders.

Or perhaps, "Why, nice enough,"---with just a little hesitation, "er---nothing unusual, though."

But, sometimes, the reply is:

"Simply beautiful. Not elaborate, but such good taste."

INDIANS INCLINE TO BUREAU RULE

Feel Their Status More Secure Under Uncle Sam.

Washington.—The little lad who has a weakness for war paint, feathers and Indian tales may take heart at the Indian bureau's announcement that there are still 345,000 of these primeval Americans in the land.

The attention of the Sixty-ninth congress will be called to the fact that, unless the nation's lawmakers make other provisions, the period of government wardship in the five civilized tribes will expire in 1931. There are about 17,000 Indians under federal supervision in the five civilized tribes, and elsewhere in the country the bureau of Indian affairs has 200,000 "restricted" Indians who are supervised.

The Indians themselves, Indian bureau officials say, are anxious to have the restriction extended, as they desire government guardianship to conserve their lands.

Under the June, 1924, law, all native-born Indians are now citizens of the United States. There are 190 tribes, many of them being small groups.

The number of Indian children in schools, the health appropriations by congress, Indian hospitals and the value of farm products raised by those citizens have materially increased in the last decade.

Farming and stock raising have developed appreciably among the Indians, and large sums of money are being spent by the government on irrigation projects on their lands, the Indians being the country's first irrigationists. The Navajo Indians in particular are great sheep raisers, their women being noted weavers of blankets.

WAS KILLED BY

FREIGHT TRAIN

W. S. Wolford Run Down By Freight

Train At Gray Station, Sunday

Evening.

W. S. Wolford, 85, who lived alone in the Valentine farm property on the Ashville-Duval road, was run down by a freight train at Gray Station, Sunday evening and instantly killed.

He had gone from his home to gather surplus coal along the N. & W. tracks, which fact is borne out by the presence of a bucket and wheelbarrow bearing small pieces of coal.

The top of his head was crushed and both shoulders broken and otherwise bruised but the body was not mangled.

Dr. Hosler, as N. & W. surgeon and acting coroner, viewed the remains.

Undertaker Schlegel removed the body to his undertaking parlor in Ashville from which place funeral services were conducted by Rev. Chandler, Tuesday afternoon. Burial at South Bloomfield.

The deceased had lived for several years in both Walnut and Madison townships previous to coming to Harrison and was known as an honest and industrious citizen.

He is survived by a son residing near Lithopolis, who attended the funeral and burial.—Ashville News.

THE NEAR EAST RELIEF

THE AMERICAN EAGLE BRINGS A SUBSTANTIAL EASTER MESSAGE TO CHILDREN OF BIBLE LANDS

An Easter Appeal

By MAUD ROYDEN

Famous Evangelist and Lecturer.

WHEN I plead for the Armenian children at Easter-tide I ask myself what excuse can anyone have for refusing help in this case. The only one I have yet met is this: "We don't like the Armenians."

But if you were to travel about the world and realize how intensely we are disliked in some parts of the world, your hair would stand on end. Is everyone who is disliked to die? If so, we shall be among the first, I assure you.

It is true that the Armenian race is a very troublesome one. It is always being massacred! It is always in trouble. For 4,000 years the Near East has been the battleground of nations. No other portion of the world's surface has been so drenched with human blood. Millions of lives and billions in property have been sacrificed. Armies and navies have failed. They have brought only desolation and ruin. They have not enriched life. Where there was hatred they have engendered more hatred, suspicion, distrust and desire for revenge.

Yet there will be no permanent world peace until the Near East question is solved.

In the Near East today there is a latent and new force that will prove mightier than all the armies of the past—little children, about a hundred thousand of them, fatherless, motherless, homeless, penniless, but none the less potential leaders of a new Near East.

The tragedy of these children is poignant. Many of them became refugees at the age of one or two years; they have lost all memory of their families; their relatives are dead; their mothers would not even recognize them again if they saw them. They have no country, for Armenia has ceased to exist. The present plight of the Armenian nation is in some respects worse than it was under Abdul Hamid. A heroic little Christian nation is homeless.

Yet I do not plead for them because they are Christians. Whatever their religion, I should feel the same about them. I do plead because for their religion, whatever it is, they have suffered unnameable things, and any people that is willing to do that is a people that deserves to live.

Let us do that pitiful little service which at present seems to be all we can do—give our help to those who are trying to collect the scattered families and provide food and clothing for a hundred thousand orphans.

We do not know how far a few loaves and fishes can be made to go. Here is no gigantic, unmanageable problem, like the Russian famine. It is a handful of people for whom I plead, and who knows how far the help we send may go?

Here are people needing only a little help to make good. Will you help them? We shall all be happier at Easter if we do.

Flogged by Turk Police, He Wins a Decoration

All the World's Studio To This Photographer

Christopher C. Thurber, of Philadelphia, who was flogged by the Turkish police because he aided Greek and Armenian refugees, has been awarded the Near East Relief distinguished service medal. His citation says "he repeatedly risked his life for the helpless and persecuted." He contracted typhus while working among the refugees.

Ernest B. Schoedsack, of Los Angeles, is called "young-man-going-somewhere" by his friends. He spent two years in Armenia as official moving picture photographer of the Near East Relief, and his services there won him the society's medal of merit. He was instrumental in the saving of many lives at Smyrna.

KEEPING WELL

TALKING TO THE DEAF

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN

Editor of "HEALTH"

MUCH has been written for those who are ill or afflicted but little has been written to help those who have to live with them. Yet I have often thought that the family of a chronic invalid deserved quite as much sympathy as the invalid did.

In a recent issue of the Volta Review, Miss Elizabeth Nevins gives some advice to those who live with or have to come in business or personal relations with the deaf. Much, she says, has been written to help the deaf but little for those who have to talk to the deaf.

Many persons are dull of hearing but not deaf enough to have to use trumpets or phones. They cannot hear well, but they don't like to admit it. They resent having their deafness noticed or remarked on. How can they be handled tactfully? Miss Nevins makes some valuable suggestions on this point.

Nearly all deaf persons have one ear better than the other. They try to get any one they are talking to on the side of their "good ear." Find out the "good ear" of any deaf person and stay near it.

Don't shout. This embarrasses the listener, without helping him. A voice raised too high is as hard to hear as one too low. Find out what tone each deaf person can hear best, and stick to it.

Note the distance at which your deaf friend can hear you best. It varies greatly in different persons.

Speak naturally. Don't "mouth" your words in an effort to make the deaf person understand. All instruction in lip reading, now so common among the deaf, is based on the expectation of natural speech. "Mouthing" only confuses the deaf person.

Speak slowly and distinctly, especially if the deaf person is a comparative stranger. Slow, distinct speaking is much more effective than raising your voice.

Look directly at the person to whom you are speaking. The voice carries more clearly and the deaf listener can see your lips.

Emphasize the most important word in the sentence, the "key word" on which the meaning hinges.

If the deaf person, through confusion or inability to hear, "gets lost" or "gets out of the conversation," bring him back with a question or comment, which will again put him in touch with the conversation.

Don't drop your voice at the end of the sentence. Don't let your face show impatience or irritation if your deaf friend does not understand. Put him at his ease and he can hear better than he can if he is shouted at, irritated and confused.

WARNS PLAGUE IS EVER A MENACE

Public Health Service Gives Out Some Figures.

Washington.—It is estimated that 10,000,000 human beings have died of the plague in the last 25 or 30 years. These figures are from the current health reports of the United States public health service.

The report estimates that hundreds of millions of people have died of plague in ages past and says that the present pandemic of plague began in China in 1894. The report continues: "During the calendar year 1923 plague was reported to the surgeon general of the public health service as being present in the following countries, namely: Algeria, Australia, Azores, Brazil, British East Africa, Canary Islands, Ceylon, Chile, China, Ecuador, Egypt, France, Greece, Hawaii, India, Indo-China, Iraq, Japan, Java, Madagascar, Mauritius island, Mexico, Palestine, Peru, Portugal, Portuguese West Africa, Russia, Siam, Siberia, Spain, Straits Settlements, Syria, Tunis, Turkey, Union of South Africa and Venezuela.

"Some of these countries have been plague infected for many years and no doubt will remain so for many years to come, possibly for centuries even. The most common way in which plague spreads from one country to another, from one city to another, is by means of rats on board ship.

"When the rats of a large city become infected with plague it often takes many years to eradicate the disease. The fact that there are no human cases does not mean that there may not be rat infection. In at least one city there is a record of rat infection extending over a period of 10 years without the occurrence of a human case during that time.

"As is well known, the pneumonic form of plague may, and sometimes does, spread with great rapidity among people who live under overcrowded and other insanitary conditions, that is, where there is close personal contact. Under favorable conditions pneumonic plague spreads along the lines of travel by human beings, by rail or by any other mode of travel, but this is not generally true of the bubonic type, which goes where the rat goes and reaches human beings from the rat.

OPENING MONDAY, APRIL 13

THREE DAYS

PETER PAN, the beloved Boy Who Wouldn't Grow Up, has come to town to make you happy.

To take you sailing on a silver cloud to the wonderful Never, Never Land. The land of the pirates and painted redskins, and the glorious adventures of youth.

The magic of the screen brings Barrie's famous masterpiece to you a thousand times greater than the play, which has charmed millions in its twenty-one years of unquailed popularity.

Betty Bronson, Barrie's own choice, is the ideal Peter Pan. Ernest Torrence is a marvelous Captain Hook. Wendy, Tinker Bell, and the other delightful characters are faithfully portrayed.

"Peter Pan" is distinctly the wonder picture of the screen.

ENERGY MEASURED IN UNITS OF HEAT

Requires Much Effort Even to Stand Up.

Washington.—A guide by which lazy people can figure out just what motions are effort-saving and what postures will tire them least is provided in a report by Dr. Francis G. Benedict, director of the Carnegie Institute's nutrition laboratory.

By a series of tests conducted at the laboratory in Boston and described by Doctor Benedict in a communication to the Institute's headquarters here, the amount of energy required for various motions of the body has been determined on the basis of the amount of heat each produces.

The corner loafer, Doctor Benedict says, might better stay at home in bed, since it costs 10 per cent more energy to stand up than to lie down.

"The heat produced in 24 hours in a human body," the report continues, "is made up, first, of an irreducible minimum going on all the time to maintain the fires of life at a normal rate, when in complete repose in bed. To sit quietly in a chair calls for practically no increase, but there is an increase of 10 per cent when standing.

"Changes in posture make a great difference. Some persons actually require 40 per cent more energy to stand than to lie, but the best and most comfortable pose, with a minimum of sway or balancing, such as would be assumed by an artist's model, results in the smallest increase of heat. Evidently skill is required to learn how to stand easily and most effectively.

"Many small movements may be expressed in heat units. If when lying down one brings the hand to the forehead and back, as in a military salute, one such movement each minute actually raises the heat output about 1 per cent and with delicate new instruments this increase can be accurately measured. Crossing or uncrossing the legs while lying increases the heat output five times more than waving the arm.

"From this one can easily see that every little movement has a caloric of its own until, when working to the limit of human endurance, a man may increase his normal heat output 1,000 per cent."

Modern Girl Superior

Girls of today come much nearer being modern Dianas than their sisters of the preceding generations. The physical education department of an Ohio coeducational college has presented the evidence.

The modern girl is taller, stronger and heavier than her grandmother and her mother were at the same age. The tests are conclusive, for they represent studies made of 1,600 women entering college in each of three periods: from 1886 to 1903, from 1909 to 1915, and from 1918 to 1922.

The average freshman woman, up to 1903, was 5 feet 2-6-10 inches in height. Her college sister of this day is nearly two inches taller.

Various strength tests similarly show the superiority of the modern girl. Feminine styles and the social requirements for women today admittedly are not perfect, although they represent a distinct advance over the last decades of the Nineteenth and the first decade of the Twentieth centuries.—Toledo Blade.

Holds Tidal Record

In the Bay of Fundy, New Brunswick, the world's highest tides are recorded. Here they often reach as high as 100 feet. On the other hand, the coast of Ireland, at Arklow, there is no perceptible tide at all, and scientists are making constant study to ascertain the reason for this variation.

Sell Scottish Estates

London, England.—During the past six years one-third of Scotland has changed hands through the real estate market. Last year was the poorest since the war; only 300,000 acres were sold as compared with 900,000 acres in 1923. Since the war about 6,500,000 acres have passed into new ownership.

Washington, April 10.—California women have declared war on street and highway accidents and are mobilizing their forces for a long and intensive state-wide campaign of education in safety and accident prevention, according to reports received by Secretary of Commerce Hoover as Chairman of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.

This campaign, which is being organized by the Women's Division of the California Development Association, will be participated in by the California State Automobile Association, the Automobile Club of Southern California, the State Parent-Teachers' Association, the State Federation and the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Police Departments of San Francisco and Los Angeles, representatives of railroad and transportation companies and a number of other state and local organizations. At a recent meeting held in Del Monte a large number of facts regarding conditions throughout the State were reported by the representatives of these various organizations.
